THE COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

WORLD CONFERENCE

Next Wednesday, April 25, the World Conference of Allied Nations, to make plans for peace, will have its opening meeting at San Francisco. This conference, it may be said, will shape the destiny of the world and its outcome will affect the lives of every human being on earth and of future generations.

Students at the College will certainly be affected. Their attitudes and opinions as evidenced in their voting for men and methods will help to determine if the peace is to be a lasting one, or if it will be only a short interval between actual hostilities.

Students are often spoken of as the future leaders of the nation. To be a leader the person must be one who is willing to take action and who will assume responsibility for that action. His certain course of action is determined by his knowledge and understanding of what he is about to do.

Whether those who are students now will be leaders or followers, they will have to make their own decisions regarding the plans made at the conference. Is that decision going to be based on ignorance of what went on because of an "I-don't-have-to-know-it-to-pass-a-test-next-Friday-so-why-bother?" attitude? One need not be a man of great vision to see what the results of such an attitude would be.

STROLLER

The laboratory school youngsters might lay the college students in the shade when it comes to the use of words the Stroller thinks. He happened to go into Miss Nelson's studio just as Greta Garten remarked about the new asbestos covering on the heat pipes, "Oh, I see they've been upholstering your rods!"

Rumor has it that there has been a man shortage on the campus for some time. But hearing senior coeds talking to one another led the Stroller to believe that the situation had suddenly been relieved. Upon closer listening, however, he learned that all of the men who were being discussed were superintendents of schools, here to employ teachers.

"My roughest mission," says Lieut. Vest, "was a single ship mission to Innsbruck, Austria, in October. The clouds, snow, and rain made a solid sheet in front of us, and we couldn't see the tips of the wings from the nose of the ship."

"All the navigation we did that day was all either by guess or by God and a very little instrument. From the looks of things when we were upstairs, I wouldn't have taken any odds on my getting back to the base."

Lieut. Vest now wears the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, and the African-European-Middle East theater ribbon with three battle stars.
